

BLOOD ON THEIR HANDS

“ We are advocates for high-quality health care for people living with HIV/AIDS in Makete District, Tanzania. Fighting against corruption, human rights abuse and ignorance, we demand more accountability in the combat against HIV/AIDS. ”

IAS must champion “Accountability for Delivery” at all levels from everyone who claims to fight AIDS, making it the central theme for AIDS 2012.

IAS must implement effective mechanisms that ensure its own members are not involved in corrupt practices and that all organizations that participate in its events are subject to regular, independent, financial and program audits.

IAS must refuse to be a platform for individuals or organizations who violate the human right to basic health care or who fail to advocate for those whose rights are violated or fail to hold accountable those who misuse health resources.
